Many people use the proceeds from the sale of their home to make the move to Scotia Village. The past few years has seen an unstable housing market and the sale of existing homes has been slow.

Good news! The sales of existing homes has increased in all regions of the country. This upward trend coupled with the fact that the summer months have, historically, been the best time to sell a home, may mean that this is the perfect time to finalize your plans to move to Scotia Village.
